Evaluation of the U.S. International Trade Commission’s Information Security Program

September 10, 2001
September 10, 2001

TO: THE COMMISSION

Although the report identified a number of deficiencies and made 19 recommendations, the Commission has taken important actions recently to improve information security. These include appointing an Information Security (INFOSEC) Officer, initiating annual security awareness training, and issuing ITC Directive 1340. Further, the Office of Information Services has designed and implemented firewall controls to prevent and detect external intrusion attempts to the network. Finally, the Office of Administration and the Office of the Secretary have established and implemented control structures for their systems.

I want to acknowledge the cooperation and courtesy shown to the Office of Inspector General by all Office Directors, and in particular the Director, Office of Information Services, and his staff, during the conduct of this audit.

Kenneth F. Clarke
Inspector General

This is an excerpt of the official audit report issued to the Commission. Subsequent distribution of the complete report is limited due to the sensitive nature of the information contained in it.