

Abstract

The U.S. International Trade Commission's Shifts in U.S. Merchandise Trade 2014 focuses on changes during 2013-14 in U.S. exports and imports of certain products, as well as changes in U.S. trade with China, Japan, the European Union, and sub-Saharan Africa. Join us as we present highlights from the newly-released web-based report and demonstrate how to use the interactive features, including the dynamic graphics and the supplemental Data Analysis Tools. These interactive features allow users to view and refine, as they choose, the official government data presented.