SUMMARY: Notice is hereby given that the U.S. International Trade Commission has determined not to review an initial determination (“ID”) (Order No. 5) of the presiding administrative law judge (“ALJ”) in the above-captioned investigation finding respondent Sinochem Ningbo, Ltd. in default.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Commission instituted this investigation, which concerns allegations of unfair acts in violation of section 337 in the importation and sale of certain portable power stations and packaging thereof on March 14, 2006, based on a complaint filed by Roadmaster (USA) Corporation, of Eatontown, New Jersey (“Roadmaster”). 71 Fed.

Reg. 13166 (March 14, 2006). The respondent named in the notice of investigation is Sinochem Ningbo, Ltd., of Ningbo, China (“Sinochem”). Roadmaster’s complaint alleged that respondent’s products infringe U.S. Design Patent No. D469,739; U.S. Trademark Registration No. 2,594,538; and Copyright Registration No. VA-1-261-495.

On May 9, 2006, complainant Roadmaster moved for an order directing respondent Sinochem to show cause why it should not be found in default for failing to respond to the complaint and notice of investigation. Roadmaster further requested issuance of an initial determination finding Sinochem in default in failure to show cause. In addition, Roadmaster’s motion included a request for immediate entry of relief upon finding of default by Sinochem. The Commission investigative attorney filed a response in support of Roadmaster’s motion, and took no position with respect to Roadmaster’s request for immediate entry of relief.

On July 12, 2006, the presiding ALJ issued an ID (Order No. 5) granting the motion of Roadmaster finding Sinochem in default pursuant to Commission rule 210.16.

No party filed a petition for review of the subject ID.

The authority for the Commission’s determination is contained in section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U.S.C. § 1337), and in section 210.42 of the Commission’s Rules of Practice and Procedure (19 C.F.R. § 210.42).

By order of the Commission.

Secretary to the Commission
