Background: Section 206 of the Andean Trade Preference Act (ATPA) (19 U.S.C. 3204) requires that the U.S. International Trade Commission submit biennial reports to Congress and the President regarding the economic impact of the ATPA on U.S. industries and consumers and, in conjunction with other agencies, the effectiveness of the ATPA in promoting drug-related crop eradication and crop substitution efforts of the beneficiary countries. Section 206(b) of the ATPA requires that each report include

- (1) the actual effect of the ATPA on the U.S. economy generally as well as on specific domestic industries which produce articles that are like, or directly competitive with, articles being imported under the ATPA from beneficiary countries;
- (2) the probable future effect that the ATPA will have on the U.S. economy generally and on such domestic industries before the provisions of the ATPA terminate; and
- (3) the estimated effect that the ATPA has had on drug-related crop eradication and crop substitution efforts of beneficiary countries.

Under the statute, the Commission is required to prepare this report regardless of whether duty-free treatment or other preferential treatment was provided during the period covered by the report. During the period to be covered by this report, calendar years 2024 and 2025, no imports entering the United States received preferential treatment under the ATPA.

The Commission does not intend to hold a public hearing in connection with the preparation of this report. The Commission intends to submit its report by August 21, 2026. The notice announcing institution of the investigation for the purpose of preparing the first report under the statute was published in the Federal Register of March 10, 1994 (59 FR 11308).
