On June 10, 2022, the Commission found respondents La Modish, Star Bay, Huizhou, and Anao (“Defaulting Respondents”) were in default and waived their rights to appear, to be served with documents, and to contest the allegations in this investigation, pursuant to 19 CFR 210.16(b), 210.17(h). Order No. 58 (May 20, 2022), unreviewed by Comm’n notice (June 10, 2022).

On September 13-16, 2022, the presiding administrative law judge (“ALJ”) held an evidentiary hearing. On September 30, 2022, Crocs, OUII, and the participating respondents (Orly, Hobby Lobby, and Amoji) filed their respective initial post-hearing briefs. On October 7, 2022, the parties filed their post-hearing reply briefs.

On January 9, 2023, the ALJ issued the final initial determination (“ID”) finding no violation of section 337 because: (1) Crocs failed to prove that any of Respondents infringes the 3D Marks; (2) Crocs failed to prove that Orly or Hobby Lobby infringes the Word Mark; (3) Crocs did not prove that any of Respondents falsely designated the origin (source) of their accused products or caused unfair competition; (4) Crocs did not prove that any of the Respondents diluted any of the Asserted Marks, either by blurring or tarnishment; (5) the 3D Marks were invalid prior to registration for lack of secondary meaning; and (6) Crocs waived its infringement contentions against Defaulting Respondents. ID at 71-72, 83-86, 148-49. The ID finds that Crocs has satisfied both the technical and economic prongs of the domestic industry requirement, and it takes no position on injury. Id. at 130, 149. The ID further finds that Respondents failed to prove the 3D Marks are invalid as functional or the Word Mark is invalid as generic, and it takes no position on Respondents’ “fair use” defense. Id. at 128-29, 149.

On April 5, 2023, the Commission determined to review the ID in part with respect to the ID’s findings that: (1) the Commission has subject matter jurisdiction; (2) Crocs waived its infringement contentions for the lined version of Orly’s Gators; (3) Crocs waived its infringement contentions against Defaulting Respondents; (4) Crocs failed to prove that consumers were likely to confuse the accused products with the Asserted Marks; (5) Crocs failed to prove that Respondents falsely designated the origin, or source, of the accused products; (6) Crocs failed to prove that Respondents improperly diluted the Asserted Marks, either by blurring or tarnishment; (7) the 3D Marks are not entitled to the presumption of validity and are invalid for lack of secondary meaning; and (8) Crocs satisfied the technical and economic prongs of domestic industry.

The Commission has determined to extend the target date for completion of this investigation to August 31, 2023.

The Commission vote for this determination took place on July 10, 2023.

The authority for the Commission’s determination is contained in section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U.S.C. 1337), and in Part 210 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (19 CFR Part 210).

By order of the Commission.
