4 The source of the Customs value and Customs revenue loss information in this bill is the proponent for H.R. 2442 (see Technical Comments).
Technical comments:

The Commission notes that HTS heading 9902.28.01 provides a temporary duty suspension for this chemical that expires on December 31, 2006. The Commission suggests that the date in the effective period column of heading 9902.28.01 be amended to extend the existing duty suspension. Also, the Commission notes that the word “Free” in the special subcolumn of heading 9902.28.01 should be deleted.

The Commission notes that the proponent has indicated that they no longer use thionyl chloride and are no longer interested in passage of this legislation. However, another bill introduced in the current session of Congress, H.R. 2442, introduced on behalf of another party, seeks temporary duty suspension for thionyl chloride.
